Mrs. K. L. Hagerman,
1047 Horton St.,
Oshawa, Ont.

Dear Mrs. Hagerman:

I think that it is time that I answered your letter and thanked you for enclosures. I have plenty of sound reasons for my delay, but I shall leave them to your imagination.

The papers from Ottawa were very informative and, therefore, reliable. If they, coupled with items in my Hagerman file, I believe, will settle a great deal of uncertainty. I shall tackle it in my interpretation, and I hope that you agree.

Christopher Hagerman, according to the Ottawa papers, was born in Germany in 1721-22 and was a soldier on the British side in the Jacobite Rebellion of 1745, being present at Newcastle-upon-Tyne in 1745.

Not long after he emigrated to America, possibly as a soldier in the War for the conquest of Canada in 1755-63, as J. J. Hagerman states. Against this is the baptism of two of his children, as will be shown later, in 1757 and 1760. Furthermore, I feel that J. J. was in error when he called the original Hagerman Abraham, being the father of the four boys. Now from that he was Christopher, by the Ottawa papers.

J. J. is also wrong when he calls Hannah Lake as wife of his great-grandfather, Abraham (Christopher?). Actually, it would appear that he is a generation out, as the census indicates that Hannah, daughter of Nicholas Lake, U.S., of Sidney Township. Hannah applied for land as daughter of a U. E. on 27 Oct. 1784. The Lake genealogy under title of 'A History of my People,' by Claude MacIlhenny, also states that Hannah married John Hagerman of Sidney. This last item was deleted from the book. A more careful look might tell a great deal.

Nicholas Hagerman, of Dolohustown, almost certainly was son of Christopher, Sr. There are several confirming items:

The Minutes of the Commissioners for Detecting & Defeating Conspiracies for the County of Albany (N.Y.), of 15 April 1776, has this:

Nicholas Hagerman from Balls town was brought before this Board, & being charged with deserting from said district on a supposition to go to the Army—but no direct proof appearing therefore ordered that Sd. Hagerman be permitted to Return home on Bail of Christopher Hagerman.

There are several references to Nicholas during the Revolution. In one instance he is called a merchant. His name appears in the list of first settlers in Dolohustown, at which time he was single, with a servant.

You must also have noticed that Christopher, Sr. signed his first petition for land while in Dolohustown, which makes one suspect that he and Nicholas were related.

He was not a soldier.

A certain amount of confirmation of relationship can be found in the following baptisms:

Nicholas Hagerman, of Adolphustown, settled there in the summer of 1764, being then single, with a servant. He married, 20 Oct., 1765, Anne, daughter of Alexander Fisher. Nicholas died, according to an item in 'Ontarian Families,' 15 Feb., 1814. Landon's Parish Register of the Bath-Frederick church states that he was buried in Adolphustown March 19, 1812. Ontario Police says that he was in his 50th year at time of death. Among his children was Christopher Alexander (named for his grandparents), born 26 March, 1792, was the person of your third query.

As far as I can tell, this Nicholas is the person referred to in your queries 1 and 2.

I can suggest several books which would be of interest.

They are:

1. 'The Story of my People,' by Claude Macmillan, for the Lake family.
2. 'Ontarian Families,' by Chadwick.
3. 'History of Lenox & Adirondack Counties,' by Kerrington.
4. The State Library in Albany, N. Y., has a genealogy of the Hagerman Family. This might possibly have something of interest.

This library certainly would have a history of Pallstown, in which there would be references to the Hagermans.

A visit to the library would be a good idea, insofar as any further study of the early generations is concerned.

I have a few more items which might be of value. They are:

1. Stephen, son of Thomas Goldsmith, U.E., married, 12 Oct., 1803, Elizabeth Hagerman. She might be a sister of Nicholas, or even his daughter. No, not his daughter, for she was single in 1803.
2. Abraham Hagerman, of Hamilton Township, married Nancy, widow of Nathaniel Ashford, a Loyalist.
3. Hannah, daughter of Nicholas Lake, a Loyalist, of Amestown & Sidney, married John Hagerman, of Sidney. She drew 200 acres of land 25 Sept. 1784.

A Happy New Year!

Sincerely,

Hagerman /

Among the company of refugees which followed Van-Alstine's lead to Canada, was Nicholas Hagerman.

He settled in the village of Adolphustown, almost in front of the U.E. burying ground. The point of land here between the Bay and the Creek is still known as Hagerman's Point. The whole of the land except the burying ground was cleared by Hagerman. His house was situated a short distance west of the road leading from the wharf up to the village. It was built near the water's edge. The short period which has elapsed since that building was erected has not only consigned the builder to a grave almost unknown, and the building to the destructive tooth of time, but the very land on which the house stood, where he and family daily passed in and out, is now washed away by the ceaseless waves of the bay.

Mr. Hagerman was a man of some education, and it is said had studied law before leaving New York. At all events he became one of the first appointed lawyers in Upper Canada, probably at the time McLean, of Kingston, was appointed. He continued to live and practice law in Adolphustown until his death. "He was the first lawyer to plead at these Courts. He was a self-made man."— Allison.

The writer's parents lived at, and near the village of Adolphustown when young; they knew the Hagerman's well, and for many a day and year attended school with Nicholas Hagerman's children. There were at least two brothers, David and Christopher, and two daughters, Betsy and Maria. Daniel was a sedate person, but "Chris." was a saucy boy. They were both elected to Parliament at the same time, but Daniel died before the meeting of Parliament. Christopher studied law with his father at first, was a pupil of Dr. Strachan's, and completed his legal studies in McLean's office in Kingston. The father and son were sometimes employed by opposing clients; at one time in Kingston, the son won the suit, much to the annoyance of the father. The father exclaimed, "have I raised a son to put out my eyes." No, replied the son, "to open them father." At the commencement of the war in 1812, Christopher went as Lieutenant with a Company from Adolphustown to Kingston. Shortly after he was chosen Aide-de-Camp to the Governor General. Thenceforth his way to preferment was steady. At the close of the war he was appointed Collector of Customs at Kingston. The Gazette of 5th September, 1815, says that Christopher Alexander Hagerman, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, was appointed to His Majesty's Council in and for the Province of Upper Canada.

On the 26th March, 1817, he was married to Elizabeth, eldest daughter of James Macaulay, Esq., Kingston.

Dear Mrs. Hagerman:

This will acknowledge the receipt of your query about the Hagermans. I shall attempt to give you a lead which may produce very good results. At this point I wish to ask that you supply me with the information which you will receive from the Public Archives.

In looking over a resume of land grants to early settlers I find the following:

On 14 July, 1796 Christopher Hagerman petitioned the Government of Canada for lands for himself and his sons, Abraham, Isaac Christopher, Jr., and John. They were granted 200 acres, when the sons reached the age of 21 years.

On 7 March, 1797, Christopher, Sen., made a further application, stating that he had two sons in the service of Government during the American War, and that he suffered greatly in the loss of his property, and praying for 1200 acres of land.

There is also the information that Abraham received lot 33 in the first concession of the Township of Hamilton.

This family very definitely is that for which you search. I would, therefore, suggest that you write to asking for photostatic copies of these two petitions, giving names and dates as shown above. It will cost you 25 cents per sheet after the tenth sheet, so your cost should be under $1.00.

The Public Archives of Canada,
Ottawa, Ontario,

As you will note, the above petitions do not coincide entirely with your family summary. In the latter Abraham is called the father, while in the former Christopher is called the father. It is more likely, however, that Abraham was the father of Christopher, Sen., and grandfather of the several boys who came to Canada.

I cannot supply you with the name of any other Hagerman, except a few men living near here. They certainly do not come from your branch. A Leonard Hagerman, brother to the men living near me, did at one time correspond with me about his family. At that time, in 1938, he lived at 326 Pine Ave., Oshawa, Ont. It seems to me that he is now dead. Of this I am not sure. He derived from a Tunis Hagerman who came to this township in 1784.

I was in the State Library in Albany, N. Y. about ten days ago. At that time I took from the shelf a book of the Hagermans, but I put it back without giving it serious review. It very likely contains the information you want. You might write to them and ask if this book contains any reference to Christopher and his five sons.

Best of luck in your search.

Sincerely,

Dear Dr. Burleigh:

I was delighted to receive your letter with the many items concerning the Hagerman family. It certainly helps to fill in the gaps in their history and to straighten out some of the discrepancies.

My original intention was to outline the family tree dating back to the first Hagerman who came to America. My father-in-law had given me some notes which he had received from his father. Among them was a long letter from J. J. Hagerman giving his interpretation of the family tree. Unfortunately, the information from the latter did not agree with what my father-in-law had learned from his father. I was at a loss to know who was right. Your letter has confirmed that the information from my father-in-law is more reliable.

In your letter you mention that a John Hagerman, son of Christopher was baptized in New York City on Jan. 12, 1777. This likely would be the John Hagerman mentioned in my father-in-law's note book as being born August 19, 1776. This is as far back as my father-in-law can go. The note goes on to say that he married Hannah Lake in Belleville and they had 8 children; Abraham H., Apr. 30, 1803; Polly, Sept. 15, 1805; Nicholas, Aug. 19, 1807; James Parrot, July 26, 1809; Elizabeth, July 23, 1811; Sabrina, Feb. 6, 1814; Sophiah, Feb. 22, 1816; Sarah, May 18, 1818. Hannah died in 1819 and John about 1844.

Thank you for the suggestions regarding relevant books. I have been unable to locate "The Story of My People" or "Ontarian Families" in the Oshawa Library. If you have occasion to write again, would you mention whether these books can still be purchased or are they out of print? There is a copy of "The History of Lennox & Addington Counties" but it is a reference book and cannot be taken out of the library. I shall have to wait till my youngest daughter goes to school all day so that I may have time to read it in the library. I did find a book that was very interesting and it had an excellent bibliography. It was "Kingston - The King's Town" by James A. Roy. For further reference material it suggested the following:

"The Parish Register of Kingston, Upper Canada, 1785-1811
published by the Kingston Historical Society, Kingston, 1921.

Mrs. Lillian Mifflin,
923 N. Barcelona St.,
Pensacola, Fla., U. S. A.

Dear Madam:

I have your letter of recent date, which I shall try to answer, before something happens.

I have the idea that you wish to prove eligibility for membership in the U. S. L. Association. If I am right, you can readily prove it, and I will show you how.

I have given your problem at least three days of search, and I can give you some advice. For instance, there are several books which you can obtain, or see in a library. I refer to

1. Pioneer Life On The Bay Of Quinte. This book, compiled in 1905, or thereabouts, deals with a number of families along the Bay of Quinte. This book is available in many libraries across the country. There is an article on your branch of the Hagermans. The family was not Loyalist. It seems that a Lenj. Hagerman came in as a settler, not a Loyalist. There were two families of Loyalist Hagermans—Nicholas of Middlebury, and Louis, of Annetown, in which Township Path is found. Neither one connects with the Hastings family to which you belong.
2. There is a genealogy of the Ketcheson family. It contains records of your family & connection with it. This I have shown on the chart which you sent to me. I am returning it, with the added information on the back. A copy of this genealogy would of value to you, if you can find a copy. I, as genealogist of the Bay of Quinte Branch, U. S. L. Association, have a copy. I could obtain photocopies for you, if necessary to you. The trouble is that such a machine is quite a long time distant.

I started this letter yesterday, but, like a true genealogist, I kept digging into your ancestry, perhaps foolishly. I have found several leads for you. For instance, you have, in addition to the Ketcheson, Hoblin and Miller families, all of Loyalist blood, another, being the Caverleys of Randen. The original one was Joseph. He had several children. One of these was a Jacob who settled in Randen. He, very likely, was the grandfather, or father, of your grandfather, Maria Caverley. A visit to the Registry Office in Belleville might discover Jacob's will naming his children. The census of 1851 might also name Jacob's family, as might the family bible if it can be located. Get at this, if you are anxious, and before someone dies.

I feel that I have done you some good, and might well do more. At the same time, while I am not a busy person, I have given you a number of hours search. As even I have expenses, I make a policy of charging for search. So, if you feel that I have done you a ten spot's worth of time, send me that much, if you dare.

Loyally yours,

PS.

I cannot find my copy of your first letter to me. Why did you write?

Dr. H. C. Burleigh,

Dear Dr. Burleigh:

It has taken considerable time to gather, through correspondence, the partial amount of information requested on ancestry form. I am still waiting for information, through relatives in Canada, re: some of the great grandparents, -which, seemingly, is not readily available.

Perhaps I should also give my own personal data. I was born on June 19, 1905, in Stirling, Ontario. I graduated from Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario with B. A. degree, 1927. I have one brother, Sylvenus John Wellington Hagerman, born: June 29, 1903, still living on our family homestead in Rawdon Twp., Stirling, R.R.1.

My father's first cousin, John Benjamin Hagerman, of whom I wrote to you in my previous letter, still lives on their family homestead, next door to ours. He is now in his 80s, but writes a very helpful letter, and I shall pass along to you some of this information, viz: Great grandfather, Benjamin Hagerman, and two brothers, Murkison and Joseph, each bought 200 acres from the Crown, and the three lots were adjoining. Benjamin bought Lot 2 in the 6th concession of Rawdon Twp. My cousin, John B. Hagerman, thinks the father of these three sons was named Paul Hagerman. (Murkison bought Lot 1, 6th concession of Rawdon Twp. Later, Joseph moved to Lot 1, 6th concession of Huntington.)

Perhaps it would also be helpful for me to add that John Benjamin Hagerman's father, William, was a brother of my grandfather, John Wellington Hagerman. William had a twin brother, Henry. They were born May 18, 1857.

It was always my understanding that our ancestors on the Hagerman side were United Empire Loyalists, coming to Ontario from Pennsylvania.

In HISTORIC HASTINGS, a centennial project covering 1867 to 1967, background history of Belleville mentions that, on Nov. 8, 1838, the Attorney-General, Charles Hagerman, had recommended that the Belleville post office refuse to circulate the newspaper, the PLAIN SPEAKER, due to its anti-government editorials. As mentioned in previous letter to you, I have seen the full-length portrait of Att'y Gen. Chas. Hagerman in Memorial Hall, Kingston, Ont., -hanging opposite one of Sir John A. Macdonald. Would Charles H. be of our Hagerman ancestry-or unrelated?

I wish to thank you in advance for your helpfulness in enabling me to learn more about the Hagerman background. In turn, I shall pass the information along to the younger generation of Hagermans. Surely, pride in pioneering work of our ancestors should motivate young people of to-day. I have observed a great lack of motivation in young people who have come to me for counselling at Juvenile Court here, over a period of sixteen years.

For whatever securing of ~~zerox~~ papers that may be essential, I shall expect to remunerate you. My cousin, John B. Hagerman, who has been so helpful in obtaining information for me, joins me in thanking you for any information that you may now be able to supply.

Yours appreciatively,

Dear Madam:

I received your letter yesterday, and am answering it before something else crops up.

I find myself unable to help you, as your letter is a most uncertain affair. There is not a date or place mentioned in it. I might say that there are at least two distinct Hagerman families in this area. There are also references to several more unconnected persons in the 1790s. All of these lived in the present Bay of Quinte region.

One of these families springs from a German soldier who came to England at the time of the Jacobite trouble in Scotland. He later came to America, and his sons crossed to Canada. A second soldier came to Canada with the Loyalists in 1784. His ancestor was of Dutch ancestry. Still another, named John, came in as a settler in 1796.

The above will point out the necessity of a good deal of information being found before a clear ancestry can be proved. So, to aid in the search, I am enclosing a paper which you must fill in as best you can, to help out.

Just remember that there may have been several Johns of Benjamins, and something must be done to separate them. So, dates and places, as well as siblings, parents and grandparents are very essential, as well as informative.

I remember a Hagerman, likely the John of whom you write, who, while working in this area, came in to talk of family. But what I do not know is your connection with him. You must remember that hours may be spent in search, some of which you may have to do.

Please return the enclosed paper, well filled out, as soon as is reasonable. Then, I may be of help to you.

Sincerely,

H. C. Burleigh

Dear Dr. Burleigh:

Your name was given to me by my father's first cousin, John B. Hagerman of Stirling, R.R. 1, Ontario, when I wrote to him asking help in securing information re: the Hagerman family tree.

I am Lillian Luella (Hagerman) Dufresne, daughter of the late Benjamin E. Hagerman, former next door neighbor of John B. Hagerman, -where the Hagermans have lived since the grant of land from the Crown.

John B. was unable to supply your initials, and so I am obliged simply to address this letter to "Dr. Burleigh" in the hope that it will reach the right party.

John B. had said in his letter that Dan Hagerman had been engaged in some construction work in Bath, and had seen the family tree through your kind permission. Since that time Dan Hagerman has died, and so John B. was unable to make the trip to Bath with him in order to secure a copy of the tree, in which his name allegedly appeared.

I had hoped to visit in Ontario this summer, and to look into the matter. (It was two years ago when John B. sent me this information.) However, since railway connections are so poor in U.S., and I do not care to fly, I have not yet made the trip. I worked for the Internal Revenue in Toronto as tax assessor, following graduation from Queen's University, Kingston. Then I visited friends in Portland, Oregon, and married N.C. Dufresne, symphony conductor, there. We came by appointment to Pensacola, Fla. in 1950, where my late husband conducted symphony until his death in 1961. I was juvenile court counselor and judge pro-tem from 1951 until 1967, when I took my early retirement due to ill health, but I have done free-lance writing in Family Counselling since that time (drawing my material from my interviews with children & parents at juvenile court here.)

923 N. Barcelona St.,

On page 82 of "HISTORIC HASTINGS", by Gerald E. Boyce, written "to commemorate the Centennial of Canadian Confederation, Hastings County has undertaken to publish a history of the County covering its development from the earliest settlement to the present century."-there is mention of Charles Hagerman, Attorney-General at that time. It concerned the wrecking of a Belleville newspaper, the Plain Speaker, viz."This paper had attracted widespread attention because of its exciting, anti-government editorials; and on November (1838) Attorney-General Charles Hagerman had recommended that the post office refuse to circulate it."...

When in Canada on a visit from Oregon I visited some former Queen's U. friends in Kingston, and I also re-visited the Memorial Hall there, where many notable people in Canadian affairs were honored by having portraits and photographs hung, covering the four walls solidly. Attorney-General Charles Hagerman, in full length portrait shared equal honours with Sir John A. Macdonald, -facing each other on the speaker's platform. Perhaps the family tree shows the relation of Charles Hagerman to the various branches of the Hagerman family. Seemingly, he had lived in our Belleville area before becoming Attorney-General.

I would like very much to secure a copy of the Hagerman family tree, and would appreciate if you would inform me from whom I might secure one. My cousin, John B. Hagerman of Stirling, R.R. 1, Ont., has asked me (also) to mention that he wishes one also. If you could tell me where I might order one, I will send, in advance, the payment for two copies.

I thank you in advance for this courtesy. I delayed in writing this request for two years, hoping, as I have said, to re-visit Ontario in person.

Yours sincerely,

Lillian L. Dufresne

100-year-old Archie Bunker fan Centenarian celebrates

By DON BOSWELL
District Correspondent

ODESSA — A woman who believes her gender belongs in the home, "holding it together," and who is a Lawrence Welk and Archie Bunker fan celebrated her 100th birthday here yesterday.

Mrs. John (Catherine) Kenny, who now resides at Lenadco in Napanee, returned "home" to "hold court" for over 250 well-wishers who gathered to honor her. Her home is beside Odessa's United Church, which she attended regularly until she moved to Napanee last year.

Catherine Hagerman was born in Centreville, Sept. 15, 1872, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Hagerman. She has lived in and around the Odessa area for 94 years.

Mrs. Kenny married John Kenny in April of 1898. The couple had two children — Mrs. Vera Zellner of Allentown, Pa., and William, who was killed in a harness racing accident in Kingston nine years ago. Her husband, who farmed, was an Ernestown Township councillor between 1902-14. He died 25 years ago. Mrs. Kenny is still a very interested political observer and continues to vote.

Time has treated Mrs. Kenny kindly. Other than a slight hearing problem she is still very mobile and keen of mind. Her time is spent reading The Whig-Standard and area weeklies from cover to cover. Her television viewing is highlighted by the weekly Lawrence Welk show, while she cannot "stifle" her enjoyment of All in the Family.

Her eyesight is still good enough so she can crochet and knit "by the yards," her family claims. Mrs. Kenny confessed to wanting to be a teacher, but said she had to stay at home and help on the farm. She noted that subjects differ greatly now from her day and that children had to walk to school as there were no buses.

She observed that people aren't farming or doing as much work in the home now as they used to. "In my day," she said, "women didn't work, they stayed home and held the home together."

Longevity seems to be a Hagerman trait. Mrs. Kenny's sister, Mabel Clark of Kingston is 98, while her brother Fred of Kingston is 87 and the "baby" of the family, Walter of Belleville, is 85.

Congratulatory messages and flowers were received from the Queen, federal party leaders, area politicians and red roses from Ernestown Township council.

Mrs. Kenny visibly enjoyed the day. She scoffed at the idea of a late afternoon nap to prepare herself for evening visitors. "I can sleep all day tomorrow," she flatly stated.

come up in life.

A "big sister," therefore, is a well-adjusted woman who is willing to share herself, her time, knowledge and abilities, to help a little girl to achieve a more meaningful life.

A "little sister" is a girl who needs a special friend. Perhaps she has only one parent. Perhaps, she has both parents but for other reasons needs the influence of a mature, well-adjusted woman who can give her companionship, attention, advice and guidance.

I don't think I have to describe the situation of some of these little sisters. It is sufficient to say that there are many, many girls who need the kind of security and compassion a warm and understanding "big sister" may provide.

The birth of the Big Sister movement in Kingston, began last March. Mrs. Jean Schwenger spoke with Mrs. Beth Kelly, who emphasized that caseworkers for the Children's Aid Society found a great need for this type of service in the city. Later, Mrs. Schwenger spoke to people she thought might be interested in such an organization and invited them to attend a pilot meeting. At this meeting, these people agreed there was a need and decided to investigate the possibility of inaugurating the Big Sister movement locally.

As a result, the group contacted other Big Sister organizations in the country to learn their definitions of a little and big sister, their modes of organization, their financial structures, constitutions, and methods of counselling and selection. This information was assembled and discussed at the subcommittee level by subcommittees divided onto "Selection and Counselling," "Finance and Budget," "Membership," "Public Relations," "Policy," "Constitution" and "By laws."

After studying the material from other Big Sister organizations, these committees drafted recommendations for the organization of a Big Sister association in Kingston. Very active in this planning stage were Mrs. Stella Buck, welfare department; Harley Shaw, Big Brothers; Muriel Latounney, public health nurse; Henry Price, Children's Aid Society; Mrs. Joanne Widdis; and Mrs. Jacqueline Fallet, Big Brother caseworker.

There the matter now stands! A group of knowledgeable people have investigated the need, gathered the information and drafted a proposed organizational structure for Big Sisters. They know such a service is both necessary and feasible in Kingston. But now they feel that more people from the community should enter the picture.

To that end, they have planned a general public meeting for next Tuesday night (Sept. 19) at 8:00 p.m. in St. Margaret's United Church, on Sir John A. Macdonald boulevard. To start the meeting off, there will be a panel discussion, during which the following people will participate: Judge G. M. Thomson, from the family court; Joan Wilkins, one of the organizers of the Peterborough Big Sisters service; Lyn Kennedy, who is presently a "big sister," and Bob Butt, the president of Kingston's Big Brothers. This panel is expected to be lively and informative.

After the panel discussion, interested people are invited to ask questions about the work of this vital service. "Big Sisters" are looking for people interested in the movement. But you don't necessarily have to be a big sister. You can also help to organize and run the program.

After having observed the planning of the proposed Big Sister organization, I'm completely sold on the value of this work. Many, many women in the community are ready to offer a

Psychiatry and you Personalities

By DR. CLAUD DUCOLYN

The SCHIZOID, the CYCLOTHYMIC, and the PARANOID personalities are three basically normal types of human reactions to the world around us. Each normal person has a tendency in one of the three directions. Some of us are quite contented with our own reactions and are uninfluenced by changes in the world around us. Some of us react dramatically to changes in our environment. And some of us are suspicious of everything around us, both people and events, and interpret them only in terms of ourselves.

Understanding these three categories of normal people provides a basis for understanding the categories into which abnormal people may be grouped. For abnormal people tend to express mental illness in terms of what their basic personality type was before their illness took control of them. The SCHIZOID personality — with his withdrawn, quiet, "mind - my - own - business" attitude, his "engrossed in his own thoughts" characteristic, and his desire to straighten things out on his own — develops, when he becomes mentally ill, into a SCHIZOPHRENIC. A schizophrenic's mental illness is typified by a withdrawal from the world around him. He will sit in a chair for hours, not communicating in any way with the outside world. A great deal may be going on inside this personality, but normal functioning has ceased altogether, because the mind and emotions have closed down to the outside world.

IV. THE safety and propriety of admitting the Petitioner to become an inhabitant of this Province being well ascertained to the satisfaction of the Board, they shall administer to every such person the oaths of fidelity and allegiance directed by Law. After which the Board shall give every such Petitioner a certificate to the Surveyor-general, or any person authorized to act as an Agent or Deputy Surveyor for the District within the trust of that Board, expressing the ground of the Petitioner's admission. And such Agent or Deputy Surveyor shall within two days, after the presentment of the certificate, assign the Petitioner a single lot of about two hundred acres, describing the same with due certainty and accuracy under his signature. But the said certificate shall nevertheless have no effect, if the Petitioner shall not enter upon the location and begin the improvement and cultivation thereof within one year from the date of such assignment, or if the Petitioner shall have had lands assigned to him before that time, in any other part of the Province.

VII. The respective Boards shall, on petitions from Loyalists already settled in the upper Districts for further allotments of land under the instructions to the Deputy Surveyor-general, of the 2d of June, 1787, or under prior or other orders for assigning portions to their families, examine into the grounds of such requests and claims, and being well satisfied of the justice thereof, they shall grant certificates for such further quantities of land, as the said instructions and orders may warrant, to the acting Surveyors of their districts respectively, to be by them made effectual in the manner beforementioned; but to be void nevertheless, if, prior to the passing the grant in form, it shall appear to the Government that such additional locations have been obtained by fraud.— And that of these, the Boards transmit to the Office of the Governor's Secretary, and to each other, like reports and lists as herein before, as to other locations, directed.

VIII. And to prevent individuals from monopolizing such spots as contain mines, minerals, fossils, and conveniences for mills and other singular advantages of a common and public nature, to the prejudice of the general interest of the settlers, the Surveyor-general and his Agents or Deputy Surveyors in the different Districts, shall confine themselves in the locations to be made by them upon certificates of the respective Boards, to such lands only as are fit for the common purposes of husbandry, and they shall reserve all other spots aforementioned, together with all such as may be fit and useful for ports and harbours, or works of defence, or such as contain valuable timber for shipbuilding or other purposes, conveniently situated for water-carriage, in the hands of the Crown.

And they shall without delay give full and particular information to the Governor or Commander in Chief for the time being, of all such spots as are herein before directed to be reserved to the Crown, that order may be taken respecting the same.

And the more effectually to prevent abuses, and to put individuals on their guard in this respect, any certificate of location given contrary to the true intent and meaning of this regulation is hereby declared to be null and void, and a special order of the Governor and Council made necessary to pledge the faith of Government for granting of any such spots as are directed to be reserved.

Bath, Ont.

Dear Dr. Burleigh:

Many thanks for your letter of October 16th with its helpful suggestions. I contacted the Public Archives for the documents you requested and they are enclosed herewith.

I am beginning to wonder whether Abraham is the correct name of the first Hagerman, born in Germany, who settled in New York State and came to Canada with four or five sons. The few details of Christopher Hagerman's (Sr.) life on the enclosed are very similar to the sketchy information we have about Abraham. I suppose this confusion is understandable since some of the family history has been jotted down solely from what one person has been told them by a father or other older relative.

Here are a few questions which I am wondering about:

1. In the document numbered "122", it mentions that Christopher Hagerman (Sr.) had a son who was an original settler. Do you know who that would be?
2. Who was the Nicholas Hagerman who received a grant of land at Adolphustown prior to 1796, probably around 1785. Could this be the son mentioned in my question #1?
3. Where does Christopher Hagerman, the first Treasurer of Upper Canada, I believe, fit into this family?

There are a number of books in the Public Library on the early settlers. Is there anyone that you would particularly recommend on the subject of U.E. Loyalists?

If there is any more information you need, please do not hesitate to write. May I thank you again for your help and interest in this undertaking.

Yours sincerely,

Eric Hagerman

Have you read any of these?

I am looking forward to a visit to the State Library in Albany although I don't think it will be this year. Two years ago we spent our holidays in the Bay of Quinte region. Last year we revisited some of the area and then went on to New York State. Unfortunately, an attack of the flu forced us to cut short our visit. This year we are planning to visit Northern Ontario so it may be two years before we can visit Albany.

I might say I envy your location in Bath. Is the Bay of Quinte as beautiful in winter as it is in summer?

My interest in my husband's family has opened up a whole new field of reading. I hope I will have more time in the future to devote to it. I find so much to admire in the Loyalists - their loyalty to the British flag which made them give up their homes and land which had been built out of wilderness - their courage to start again to build homes and create farmland out of forest. Christopher Hagerman, Sr. was 74 years of age when he requested 200 acres. What a good thing they didn't have Old Age Pensions then or he probably wouldn't have bothered with the land. I wonder how long he lived after he received it.

I am indeed indebted to you for your help and time expended on my curiosity about the Hagerman family. Many, many thanks again and if there is anything I can do for you in return, I shall be glad of the opportunity.

Sincerely,

Edna Hagerman

Dear Dr. Burleigh:

A recent visit to Adolphustown has prompted me to find out more about my husband's family history and the part they played in the early settlement of Ontario. I discussed the subject with a Mr. Young in the U.E.L. Museum and he suggested that I get in touch with you as you have made a study of these early Canadian families.

I am enclosing an outline of the family history as written down by my father-in-law. The original entries were in an old Family Bible which has long since disappeared. From this information, I am wondering whether you can tell how they are related to the Nicholas Hagerman who was granted the land at Adolphustown.

I also have a long letter from James John Hagerman of Roswell, New Mexico dated June, 1908 in which he outlined his version of how the Hagerman family arrived in Canada. Here is an extract from it which contains the pertinent facts:

"I was born on March 23, 1838 near the town of Port Hope. I saw the old house in which I was born in the winter of 1861. The old house was built by my grandfather, John Hagerman. It was destroyed by fire a few years ago.

My grandfather left his large farm and other property to his sons, James Parrot Hagerman, my father, and Nicholas Hagerman, my uncle. Some years after the death of my grandfather, my father sold his share of the property to his brother. The farm is now owned by Thomas R. Hagerman, the oldest son of Nicholas Hagerman.

I do not know very much about the history of my family excepting as it was told me by my father and by Harvey Hagerman (my father's cousin) and from what I can remember by reading an old document of history which was owned by Harvey Hagerman, and which now seems to be lost.

My great-grandfather, Abraham Hagerman, was a Hanoverian subject of one of the Georges who became King of England. He was an officer in the Hanoverian Army, and joined the British Army and became a British subject. He had been in the British Army a long time when Wolfe's expedition to capture Quebec was organized. He was an officer in that Army and took part in the battle on the Plains of Abraham. At that time, as near as I can remember from the old document, he was about forty-five years old and unmarried. When the Quebec Campaign was over in 1759, part of Wolfe's Army was ordered to New York and my great-grandfather was among the other soldiers who went there.

A number of the officers who had served a long time and who made good records, were given their choice of returning to England and remaining in the Army, or leaving the Army and remaining in the British Colonies. Those who remained were paid a sum of money and given large tracts of land. My great-grandfather was given about two thousand acres of land on the east bank of the Hudson River in which is now Dutchess County, near Poughkeepsie. There he settled and made a home. He married a Dutch woman by the name of Hannah Laake and to them five sons were born, John, Abraham, Nicholas, Christopher and Harvey. He became a prosperous man and when the Revolution broke out, he had a large farm, a store, a potash factory and other property.

He was a stiff Tory. When he left the Army, he again swore allegiance to the Crown and stuck to his oath. He was persecuted by the "rebels", as he thought them, showed fight, and his buildings were burned. Seeing no other way to do, he joined other Royalists, abandoned his property, and with his large family left for Canada. They went in boats up the Hudson, to the St. Lawrence, and first stopped near what is now Kingston. After a short time they went further west and settled finally at Port Hope on Lake Ontario. There he was given a tract of land, part of which is the old farm of which I was born. The Royalists who left the rebellious colonies were called U.E. Royalists and were given grants of land in Canada. Harvey Hagerman had the deed of this U.E. grant, a ponderous document, which recited that the land was given to Abraham Hagerman for his bravery, loyalty and devotion to his King. Abraham Hagerman died at a very old age and was buried in a cemetery called Smith's Hill in Port Hope. His oldest son, John, it seems, was a "rebel", would not follow his father to Canada and enlisted in the Patriot Army. Whatever became of him I have never been able to learn.

My great-grandmother belonged to an old Dutch family which once owned Staten Island. Nearly as far back as I can remember, an effort was made to recover it for the Laake family. Nothing came of it, however."

I realize that you are a very busy man and I do not want to take up your time with my questions but I was wondering whether you had any information about the Hagerman family which might fill in the gaps. I would be glad to hear about any books or reading matter on this subject. Do you know of any other Hagerman descendants who might be interested in pooling their knowledge?

Yours very truly,

Hannah Laake = John Hagerman of

"Maybe you'd better be cautious," Sara Sue counseled him. "You might—well, you might bust out. Rice has very high scholastic standing, and—"

"Oh, no, I was valedictorian at home."

"O.K. Fine!" She took his money and smiled at him.

That was the second time she had smiled directly at him. And when Sara Sue Davis smiled directly at anybody twice, she made an indelible impression. Mr. Worthington Gurley swallowed hard, blushed and departed.

When the crowd dispersed for lunch, one man remained at Sara Sue's door. She didn't quite catch his name when he mentioned it, but she didn't want to offend and so didn't ask it again. They sat on her sofa to talk. She didn't think he was a student. He was youngish, but not quite that young. Still, he might be a graduate student, working for his Ph.D.

"I just want to ask one little favor, please, Mrs. Davis," the gentleman almost overwhelmed her, even though a drizzle of rain had begun. Her afternoon seemed like one long happy house party but her little desk was gathering a pile of bills and cheques, too. All of the students had money on the opening week of school, and lest they go broke later, most of them paid not one, but several months in advance.

By 5 p.m., though, the rain seemed to take offense at the fact that people were ignoring it. Instead of just pouring and roaring, it began snorting and snatching.

"Winter comin' early," Calculus Jones ventured, from his kitchen corner where he watched his wife cook.

"Hush yo' mouf and go jog up Miss Sara Sue's furnace," Cleo ordered.

When the students all departed for their various dinners, Sara Sue had a half hour alone. It was time to think. She was delighted with the results of her planning. At the rate customers were signing, she would have her 100 before the week was over.

Bob Towne 'phoned at 6 o'clock, saying he would call for her promptly at 8. It took 15 minutes of her best conversation to tell him no.

At 7 p.m. the front door seemed to explode open, and a sou'westered lad dripped in.

"Worthington!" Sara Sue was astonished. "You'll drown!"

He was far from drowning, though. He had a goal. His goal was to take Sara Sue to a dinner, a theatre, a movie, a night 'club, any or all four. He had his car. He pleaded. He looked like somebody's little brother. It was hard to tell him no; the process took half an hour.

Nobody else dared the rainstorm until 9:30, when an insistent honking brought Sara Sue to her front porch. A blue car stood at her curb, 30 feet away. The driver, a woman, honked again.

Sara Sue couldn't understand why the caller didn't come in. Still, hospitality is hospitality. There must be

WILSON-HAGERMAN

Queen Street United Church was the scene of an attractive wedding Saturday afternoon when the Rev. Basil Thompson officiated at the marriage of Greta Vivian Hagerman, youngest daughter of Mrs. Gertrude Hagerman, to Harold Alexander Wilson, elder son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Wilson. The bride, given in marriage by her brother Stewart, wore a charming gown of blue taffeta with accessories to match. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Miss Muriel Williams attended the bride, wearing a gown of pink moire and accessories to match, and carrying a bouquet of white carnations. Mr. Wilson was assisted by his brother-in-law P. Edward Bailey. Mr. Arnold Whiteman, soloist, sang "I love you truly," accompanied by Miss Pearl Nesbit at the organ.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at Morrison's restaurant. The groom's gift to the bride was a lovely gold locket; to the bridesmaid a white gold link bracelet set with brilliants; to the groomsmen and soloist, gentlemen's gold accessory sets, to the organist, a cameo pendant; to the ushers, Mr. Harold Silver and Mr. Kenneth Martin, gold tie clasps.

Later the couple proceeded to Toronto, where they expect to spend the next few weeks.

GOLLOGLY—HAGERMAN

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anson Hagerman, Odessa, on Saturday evening when Fern Edith, their second daughter, was united in marriage to Charles Earl Gollogly of Kingston. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. P. Fletcher of Odessa, and the attendants were Wilbert B. Gollogly, brother of the groom and Miss Margaret A. Hagerman, sister of the bride.

The bride looked charming in a sea blue silk gown and she carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. The bridesmaid wore a blush pink satin dress and carried white carnations. The ceremony took place under an arch formed of evergreens decorated with roses, centred by a large white bell.

Following the ceremony the guests were entertained at dinner, the color scheme being pink and white. The bride's table held the large wedding cake in three layers.

The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts and after the dinner left on a honeymoon trip to New Jersey and other points in the United States. The bride travelled in a tan ensemble, with hat and shoes to match. Upon their return they will reside at 489 Barrie St., Kingston.

The Hagermans.

The Hagermans.--- Nicholas Hagerman was one of the most prominent of the early pioneer settlers. He settled in the Bay Shore on the lot where the Refugee party first landed and on which the U.E.L. burying ground is located. The house in which he lived was burned a few years ago. He is represented as being a man of not much education, but of much energy and shrewdness. He was specially authorized to act as a lawyer, and said to have been the first to legally practise in Upper Canada. He had one daughter and three sons; Christopher was a practising lawyer in Kingston, and once Collector of Customs. He was elected to represent Kingston, and was Solicitor General of Upper Canada during the Mackenzie stirring times of the thirties, and was then appointed Chief Justice, which he held till his death. Daniel, another son, was elected M.P. for the County, but died before taking his seat. He studied law and lived in Bath. Probably was not married. Joseph was also a law student at Bath, but died early and probably never called to the bar or married. Jane the daughter was probably not married. Mrs. Robinson, wife of the late Hon. J. Beverly Robinson, Lieut.-Gov. of Ontario, was a daughter of Chief Justice Hagerman. Nicholas lies buried in the U.E.L. ground, in a grave now unmarked and unknown.

Dear Doc:

Just a line further to our history research past and future. I have written to the Hagermans at Teeterville regarding your proposed trip to Albany. They of course are eager for information but like many people these days do not wish to part with their cash. They advise only $7.00 on hand in their organization so further cash would come from their (well to do) members if at all.

However I personally ~~will~~ <sup>will</sup> donate $2.00 to at least make a start on any information you feel will be of interest. Am enclosing Postal note for this amount. If you locate something which cannot be obtained for this amount, suggest you note book and typist name & address, so we may make arrangements after your return.

Stopped in Brighton on way up but Mr. Ray Freeman was not at home. However I left a note with his mother (aged 92 years) to reply to your letter.

Thanking you for your continued interest in my endeavours.

Sincerely yours
L.E. (Len) Hagerman. (11)

Dr. H. C. Burling, Genealogist
Bay of Quinte United Empire Loyalist Assoc.
Bath, Ontario,

Dear Dr. Burling,

Your name and interest appears in an old clipping (undated) from our local paper, The Brandon Sun. The article was written by Leon Kassav.

It mentions, as N. E. L. immigrants that, "blacksmith Peter Van Alstine headed a party that included such ~~families~~ <sup>families</sup> as the Ruttans, Huyabstellaux, Hagermans, Ballis, Van Worens, Maybels,
Calis and Stents.

Having been asked by my granddaughter for a family history, and being forced to inactivity by a heart attack, I am trying to gather information about my family - the Hagermans.

My father was Worthington Avery, 1881-1956, born at Ridgetown, Ont. His father was Albert Avery, born near Lindsay, Ont. <sup>(1848-1921)</sup> His father was Lorenzo Dow, 1824-1893, the son of Nicholas Hagerman (1780-1838) & Polly Ketchum.

My information says that Nicholas and all of his children except Lorenzo & John are buried at Hagerman's Corners. There are many more Hagermans in that cemetery but I have not been able to make the proper connections. Nicholas came to Canada in 1804 from Pennsylvania. He got a grant of land from his father, John - but apparently John never came to Canada. I do not know why not.

Would people who came to Canada as late as 1804 be classed as United to specialists of NB.

Empire Loyalists?

We have heard that there were two branches of the Hagerman clan and that one settled in the Maritimes, and one in Ontario. Can you tell me about this, or to whom I could write for information?

A Christopher Hagerman is mentioned as Solicitor-General in the "Family Compact" in the 1830's. "Three men (Boulton, Hagerman and McNab), whom even the moderate Reformers found offensive." - The Rebellions of 1837 in Upper and Lower Canada, published by Imperial Oil Limited, written by Malcolm G. Parkes, M.A.

There is a Christopher Hagerman buried at Hagerman's Corners but he would be a much younger one. Can you tell me where they fit in? I can follow Lorenzo's descendants down to myself and I have sketchy information about William's immediate family and Mary Anne (Black's).

Have you any information about other Hagermans and what relationship they would be to us? I have heard that some still live around Lindsay and Madoc, Ontario.

We would be extremely grateful for any information and would pay for it if required.

Sincerely,

Margaret Mann

Née Hagerman.

P.S. Until my heart attack, I was archivist for the Assiniboine Historical Society. This area is full of people descended from Ontario people, many from Lanark County.
